You already manage your software licenses carefully because software is a key business asset. But taking advantage of international best practices puts you ahead of the game by driving efficiencies and minimizing risks. The benefits of good SAM are substantial, companies can save an average of 15-20 percent on software costs.

Why take the next step to Certification?

Certification demonstrates that your SAM practices are world-class. Aligned to the ISO 19770-1 SAM standard it provides you with standardized benchmarks to implement and measure the effectiveness of your SAM program. Additionally, leading software publishers offer a two-year audit forbearance to all Verafirm Certified companies giving you confidence and assurance in your program.

How it works

Certification is a comprehensive review of your SAM policies, processes, outcomes and license positions.

“ We are proud to achieve the prestigious Verafirm Certified. This recognizes our efforts toward effective implementation of ISO SAM aligned processes and license compliance. It also demonstrates our commitment toward upholding high ethical standards. . . ”

Vice President, KPIT Technologies

“ The SAM processes and subsequent assessment helped us improve the license management and educate users on what needed to be done. . . The process led to smarter and more accurate IT governance, cost control and peace of mind. ”
